WELCOME!

Dear Social Science Colleagues:

Welcome to San Francisco, California, for the 59th Annual Conference of the Western Social Science Association (WSSA)! The Western Social Sciences Association Annual Conference offers an amazing opportunity to interact with colleagues across social science disciplines and from around the globe. Were it not for the wide number of disciplines represented at our annual conference, I would never have made some truly inspiring connections to insightful colleagues, had the opportunity to work with scholars from a range of perspectives, or to learn from their presentations and valuable feedback. I will be forever grateful for having been introduced to this unique association of scholars! The ability to share these types of interactions has made me a broader thinker, theoretically and methodologically. I have been guided to new streams of literature through my colleagues. Overall, I believe myself to be a stronger scholar as a result of my participation in this Association.

As a scholar who often works in the Venn intersection of multiple disciplines, I have been thrilled to find WSSA offering so many cross-listed sessions. Many of our presenters and topical sections work in interdisciplinary or multidisciplinary formats. This provides tremendous opportunities for conference attendees to really connect with people who have overlapping theoretical, topical, or methodological interests. This is valuable for scholars at all stages of their careers, be they newly minted Ph.D's, graduate or undergraduate students, or colleagues who have been in their disciplines for some time.

I have always been so impressed with the convivial quality of our participants! As our past-president, Heather Albanesi, stated last year, I strongly encourage you to take some time to look through this program and consider attending sessions outside of your discipline. Then, introduce yourself and have a wonderful conversation with someone new each day! Make a point to connect with our international scholars! The Association of Borderland Studies and Latin American Studies are comprised of scholars from around the world. Our Canadian Studies, Australian and New Zealand Studies, and Globalization and Development sections further complement the international reach of the scholarship represented.

To start taking advantage of these opportunities, be sure to join us for the Wednesday Welcome Reception and stay for the Saturday President's Reception/Awards Ceremony. These are complimentary and everyone is welcome! We also have complimentary breakfast on Friday morning. Please do join us and consider supporting the San Francisco/Marin Food Bank with a generous donation! Every year, the WSSA is proud to raise funds for a local food bank at our Conference. The WSSA generously matches the donation total collected from our individual members, so we have a true impact in the community that hosts us!

I am grateful to President-Elect Barbara Bonnekessen who, along with her assistant and our hard-working Section Coordinators, has created a really exciting Conference Program. We hope you find this year's Conference rewarding and enjoyable. Executive Director Larry Gould and Communications Director Kate Herke will be on hand to ensure events run smoothly. We look forward to another exciting Annual Conference exemplifying our ideals of Scholarship, Service, and Collegiality as we meet in San Francisco. I look forward to meeting you!

Michèle Companion
President, Western Social Science Association

Western Social Science Association

The Western Social Science Association (formerly the Rocky Mountain Social Science Association) was founded in 1958 when the Social Sciences Section of the Colorado-Wyoming Academy of Science was reconstituted as an independent organization. On January 1, 1975, the name was changed to the Western Social Science Association (WSSA) to reflect the geographical representation of the Association. The purpose of the WSSA is to foster professional study, to advance research, and to promote the teaching of the social sciences. Membership is open to all who share its aims. The WSSA publishes the Social Science Journal, a newsletter, and an annual program and abstracts for the conference. Several affiliated organizations meet concurrently with the WSSA and share in developing the program.

*WSSA Give Back

In 2012, the Western Social Science Association revitalized our organizational mission of service at the Annual Conference in Houston, by hosting a fund drive for a local charity. Conference attendees gave generously and we were extremely pleased to raise more than $2,100 for the Houston Food Bank. The following year (Denver 2013), we raised $2,671 for the Food Bank of the Rockies. In 2014, we collected $2070 for Roadrunner Food Bank of New Mexico. In Portland in 2015, it was $2,500! In 2016, in Reno, we had our most successful venture yet: $3000 for the Food Bank of Northern Nevada!

Your donation is tax deductible and receipts will be available at the donation table, along with information about hunger in San Francisco and Marin County and the types of programs offered by the food bank.

The San Francisco-Marín Food Bank (<http://www.sfmfoodbank.org>) is dedicated to eradicating food insecurity by helping individuals and their communities increase self-sufficiency and food security status. However, with unemployment rates and food, gas, and housing prices remaining high, demand for their services has increased every year. More than 47 million pounds of food will be delivered throughout San Francisco and Marin in 2016, with more than half of it fresh produce direct from the farm! This means that 100,000 meals worth of food will be distributed each and every day! Your $1 will buy 3 meals!

WSSA 2017 Spotlight on Local Organization

The Healthy Southeast Coalition

We are very happy to introduce our 2017 WSSA Spotlight Organization, the Healthy Southeast Coalition (Coalition), to our members and friends. For the last 10 years, Coalition members and partners have worked together to advance healthy eating and active living in the Bayview Hunters Point area of San Francisco.

At its onset, the Coalition did not have any formal outside funding. Rather, the early work of SEFA was supported by time and energy contributed by staff members of the San Francisco Department of Public Health (SFDPH) and the energy of community members. In the Coalition's early work, three pillars of work were articulated to advance healthy eating and active living in the region— better access to healthy food, awareness and education of nutrition issues, and the development of urban agriculture resources by which residents of BVHP could grow their own food. Coalition partners have been very successful in this work; outcomes of their efforts include a municipal ordinance that established a framework to support conversions of small corner stores into healthy food outlets, and an ordinance that required healthy choices as part of fast food “happy meals.”

We extend a warm welcome to Coalition members, and a warm invitation to WSSA members and friends to visit with partners of the Healthy Southeast Coalition that will be joining us in San Francisco for the 2017 WSSA conference. We hope to see you there!

WORKSHOP 2 Teaching Social and Behavioral Science for Health Professionals: New Opportunities for Social Scientists

Jason Adam Wasserman, Oakland University
Brian P. Hinote, Middle Tennessee State University

SATURDAY
2:45 pm – 4:15 pm

Pacific B

In recent years, we have witnessed an increasing emphasis on social and behavioral sciences in medical, nursing, and allied health education. The MCAT, for example, now includes social and behavioral science as one of its four key sections, and medical schools and other health training curricula across the country are increasingly listing such courses among their prerequisites. This presents notable challenges and opportunities for social and behavioral scientists and others studying and working in areas germane to health and health care. We must explore how to shape the content of our existing courses (or new courses dedicated to these student populations) to meet the needs of increasing numbers of pre-professional students pursuing a variety of clinic-based occupations. Moreover, it is an opportunity to explore new pedagogical frameworks so that this important material makes a significant and lasting impact on future health professionals and their work. In this workshop, Wasserman and Hinote explore these challenges and introduce novel pedagogical strategies to facilitate insights on customizing the ways that we introduce social and behavioral science content to students from applied health and medical contexts.
